

National Louis University
Institutional Repository Release Form

The National-Louis University (NLU) Institutional Repository collects and manages student and faculty works. This repository is a collection of works from the NLU community, faculty, teachers, students and alumni.

An author's work (papers, projects, portfolios, dissertations, and other creations) is automatically copyrighted when it is in a fixed, tangible format. The author (student, faculty member, or other) owns the copyright to their work. To properly manage this Institutional Repository and preserve materials for future use, NLU requires permission from you the author or copyright owner.

By accepting this license and signing below, you are granting National Louis University (NLU) a non-exclusive distribution license which includes the right to reproduce, translate, and/or distribute your work worldwide, in any format or medium for non-commercial, academic purposes only.

Non-exclusive distribution license

By accepting this license, the student hereby grants NLU a perpetual non-exclusive, worldwide, royalty-free license to reproduce, translate, and/or distribute your content (submission includes metadata and abstract) worldwide, in any format or medium for non-commercial, academic purposes. For the purposes of this agreement, content means the audio, visual, textual, graphical, or other materials provided by the student. Other than the license granted herein, the student retains all intellectual property rights to the content and the responsibility for enforcing those rights.

As the author, you retain copyright to your work(s). You do not give up the right to submit work(s) to publishers or other repositories. NLU will clearly identify your name(s) as the author(s) or owner(s) of the material, including a statement of copyright, and will not make any alteration, other than allowed by this license, to your material/submission.

You agree that NLU may, without changing the content, translate the submission to any medium or format and keep more than one copy for the purpose of security, archive and preservation.

As the author, you represent and warrant that to the best of your knowledge: (i) you are the sole owner of the content or has been otherwise authorized by the owner of the content to use the content herein, and have secured all necessary licenses, consents and authorizations with respect to use of the content and all elements thereof to the full extent herein; and (ii) no part of the content violates or infringes upon the patent rights, copyrights, trade secrets, trademarks or constitutes defamation, invasion of privacy or the violation of any right of publicity or other rights of any person or entity. If the content contains any material which is not original then you must: (a) must provide NLU written permission from the copyright holder of said material; or (b) remove the material from the content.

As the author, you also agree that authorized readers of your work have the right to use it for non-commercial, academic purposes as defined by Fair Use provisions of U.S. Copyright law (section 106), so long as all attributions and copyright statements are retained.

If the submission contains material for which you do not hold copyright and that exceeds fair use, you represent that you have obtained the unrestricted permission of the copyright owner to grant NLU the rights required by this license, and that such third-party owned material is clearly identified and acknowledged within the text or content of the submission.

This non-exclusive license agreement is hereby made between the undersigned and National-Louis University.
